Reading this in jordan petersons voice different than they were 5000 years ago; there were fast food restaurants, shopping malls, and surprisingly advanced technologies littered throughout history that only require a working knowledge or familiarity with simple physics. If you have any skill at translating, you will find that senses of humor across all of the ancient written works that are strikingly familiar to ours, simply using context and subject matter from their own time. Hell, Pompeii is covered in murals and paintings of a bunch of dicks; not too different from public bathrooms in the modern era.
